

WISE

Three-day program

C-LEVEL EXECUTIVE

These customized sessions aim at helping you face the leadership challenges with confidence.

- Do you address large audiences?
- Do you present at boards, executive committees?
- Do you take part in panel discussions?
- Do you give interviews?
- Do you speak at conferences and large events?

If any of these situations are true, you know that delivering the right message in a successful way may sometimes become a challenge.

Wise's program will be tailored to your particular needs and help you become an excellent communicator not just an adequate one. Learn how to avoid presentation traps, gain gravitas and recognition.

The customized sessions will cover all essential aspects of public speaking, presentation skills, and media training.

Our program will help you take advantage of all the public exposure while you make an impact!

Typical schedule:

Day 1

The sessions will begin with an in-depth body language and voice projection. We will analyze your behavior and identify what messages are being sent through your gestures and tone of voice. You will also learn how to manage fear of public performances, how to prepare your voice for public presentations through practical drills and you will start eliminating anything that acts a “derailer” from your message.

Day 2

During this session you will learn how to deliver both spontaneous and prepared presentations. You will learn different structures that will come handy even if you have no time to prepare an answer. You will practice a different beginnings and powerful endings of your presentations. You will learn how to manage your audience and challenging questions, brush up your pitch and remain in control under any circumstances.

Day 3

The third day deals with practical drills to polish your performance, message and delivery. This session will also deal with an extra module that tackles various complex aspects of possessing Executive Presence; projecting credibility.

Schedule a free meeting first to establish your goals and discuss the training content.
